

Travel industry gears up for Kashmir’s comeback

FAITH, IATO, TAAI, HAI members to visit conflict-hit areas in solidarity

GULVEEN AULAKH
New Delhi, 5 June

India’s travel and hospitality industry is stepping in to help revive tourism in Jammu & Kashmir (J&K) — the lifeline of the country’s northernmost state — after its peak season collapsed following terrorist attacks on tourists that triggered mass cancellations.

The Federation of Associations of Indian Tourism & Hospitality (FAITH), the Travel Agents Association of India (TAAI), the Indian Association of Tour Operators (IATO), and prominent members of the Hotel Association of India (HAI) will visit Srinagar, Gulmarg, and Pahalgam in the coming weeks to reinforce the message that the region is safe for tourists.

“We’ve spoken to tourist transport operators in Srinagar and confirmed our visit to Srinagar, Gulmarg, and Pahalgam. Around 50 operators will accompany us. We’re going in person to show that Kashmir is completely safe for travel,” said Bobby K S Sawhney, treasurer at FAITH. He added that the dates were being finalised in coordination with state officials.

IATO is organising a four-day trip in which a 22-member delegation will travel to Srinagar and Pahalgam.

“This trip is to show solidarity with the J&K tourism sector. It’s being supported by IndiGo, local hotels, tour and transport operators. We’ll be there from

Kashmir to get 2 Vande Bharat trains from Saturday

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is set to inaugurate two Vande Bharat trains services between Katra (Jammu) and Srinagar today, along with the Udhampur-Srinagar-Baramulla Rail link (USBRL) project. With this, the Kashmir valley will get all-weather railway connectivity with the rest of the country.

These trains, which will begin operations on Saturday, will operate six days a week, enhancing connectivity with Vaishno Devi. The two Vande Bharat trains will run on the Srinagar-Katra-Srinagar route with intermediate stops at Banihal.

DHRUVAKSH SAHA

June 14 to 17,” said IATO president Ravi Gosain.

Industry executives said 100–150 tour operators and agents from across India have been identified to visit the state over the next few weeks.

“Travel agents are among the first to go to J&K. Each organisation will contribute in its own way. The idea isn’t to go en masse and turn it into an event,” said K B Kachru, president of HAI and chairman, South Asia, Radisson Hotel Group.

Tourism was hardest hit after the terror attack in Pahalgam, in which 26 people — 25 of them tourists — were killed.

The incident escalated tensions between India and Pakistan and led to Operation Sindoor. Although a ceasefire ‘understanding’ and de-escalation followed, key destinations across J&K — Gulmarg, Sonamarg, Pahalgam, Srinagar, and Katra — and cities near the border saw an exodus of tourists and a wave of cancellations.

Independent hotels, heavily dependent on tourism revenue, bore the brunt. Travel portal executives said bookings haven’t yet recovered to pre-attack levels.

Branded hotel chains such as Radisson, Lalit Hotels, and Indian Hotels Company (IHCL) were hit just as hard and are now hoping the industry’s outreach efforts will help turn the tide. J&K’s tourism sector depends primarily on domestic travellers, especially from Punjab, Haryana, Delhi, Uttarakhand, West Bengal, Gujarat, and Maharashtra.

“The industry is cautiously hopeful, even though we know this season has taken a hit. But once people start seeing others return, hear from word of mouth, and see campaigns alongside government action on safety, all of it together will help bring tourists back,” Kachru said.

Radisson has a strong presence in the region, with five hotels in Kashmir, four in Jammu, and a luxury property coming up in Pahalgam. It’s among the earliest hotel chains to set up in the area, along with Lalit Hotels and IHCL’s Taj.

Govt eyes 1K hydrogen vehicles on roads by 2030

PUJA DAS
New Delhi, 5 June

The central government plans to put at least 1,000 hydrogen-powered trucks and buses on the road by 2030, an official said.

After electric vehicles (EVs), hydrogen-powered cars have emerged as a viable alternative to conventional internal combustion engine vehicles to curb road transport emissions.

“Almost 50 trucks and buses should be running on hydrogen within this year, and from next year, we’ll need to scale up. We expect more than 1,000 trucks or buses to be in commercial use across the country by 2030,” Abhay Bakre, mission director of the National Green Hydrogen Mission (NGHM), said on Thursday at a Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers event on revolutionising mobility.

But the availability of green hydrogen will be a challenge, he said. “That’s because most of the hydrogen we aim to produce is meant for a wider market, given the high capital investment required.”

Refineries need large renewable energy inputs, big plants, vast land, and water to produce green hydrogen.

The government also plans to install fuel stations every 200 kilometres (km) and produce biogas-based or decentralised hydrogen at affordable rates. Pilots have been cleared for 10 short-distance corridors, though longer routes like Delhi-Mumbai may also be explored.

The ease of charging an EV at home doesn’t apply to hydrogen vehicles.

“At this stage, it’s risky to produce hydrogen and charge your vehicle at home. Maybe someday, we’ll produce hydrogen on rooftops for cooking and transport, but that’s still far off. So, we’re building a network of hydrogen refilling stations,” Bakre said.

“Our first step is to run pilots across various mobility levels. We plan to set up roadside fuel stations using biogas-based or decentralised hydrogen. We’ve already cleared pilots in 10 corridors,” he added.

“These are short stretches, 100 to 200 km. But we might even try longer corridors like Delhi-Mumbai or others, where fuelling stations could be set up every 200 km. The idea is to produce decentralised hydrogen at a much lower cost.”

State plans green aviation fuel policy

VIRENDRA SINGH RAWAT
Lucknow, 5 June

The Yogi Adityanath government is creating “Uttar Pradesh Sustainable Aviation Fuel Manufacturing Promotion Policy 2025” in an effort to integrate the farm economy with green energy.

By using biomass and grain-based feedstock for the production of aviation fuel, the policy will promote rural income. The feedstock includes rice husks, wheat straw, excess food grains, and sugarcane bagasse.

India’s top agricultural producer is developing a plan to increase its portfolio of clean energy such as compressed biogas, in order to reduce fossil fuel consumption amid rising energy demand.

The state has already received 18 investment proposals worth ₹3,000 crore from companies looking to set up sustainable aviation fuel (SAF) units in UP under the new policy. Greenko, AM Greens, Balrampur Chini Mills, E2o Greenfuels, New Era Clean Tech, and the Malbros Group are a few of these businesses. UP Chief Secretary Manoj Kumar Singh said the planned measure will invest funds in farmers’ pockets while promoting a green ecosystem, which will speed up the state’s move towards green energy.

In the interim, the state industry interface ‘Invest UP’ has floated an expression of interest inviting global SAF technology providers and clean energy innovators to join the ecosystem. It is in line with UP’s goal of becoming a $1 trillion economy with a major focus on manufacturing and clean energy on the back of “Make in UP” and “Made in UP” roadmap.

The government is attracting investors through incentives, promoting an ‘ease of doing business’ initiative, and highlighting the state’s strengths as a manufacturing centre.

Animal insurance registrations may begin this month

ANIL SHARMA
Jaipur, 5 June

Rajasthan’s animal husbandry department is planning to start the registration process for the animal insurance scheme Chief Minister Mangala Pashu Bima Yojana for 2025-26 (FY26) later this month, Animal Husbandry, Dairy and Devasthan Minister Joraram Kumawat said.

The scheme, announced in the state’s 2025 budget, aims to provide financial assistance in case of accidental death of livestock animals. According to Kumawat, as many as 42 lakh cows, buffaloes, sheep, goats and camels will be covered under the scheme.

While directing department officials to implement the scheme at the earliest, Kumawat expressed displeasure over the slow pace of issuing insurance policies last year and directed them to increase the number of survivors.

Over 16.7 lakh online applications were received in FY25, Kumawat said.

New policy to turn Maoist hideouts into tourist hubs

R KRISHNA DAS
Raipur, 5 June

Tourists will soon get an opportunity to stay in the houses located in pockets that were once a safe home for the dreaded Maoist cadres.

In a cabinet meeting chaired by Chief Minister (CM) Vishnu Deo Sai on Wednesday, “Chhattisgarh Homestay Policy 2025-30” was approved to promote tourism in the rural- and tribal-dominated areas. The focus of the policy is to promote homestays in areas where not only tourists, but also the citizens, are reluctant to visit, following the Maoist terror.

“The objective of the Homestay Policy is to promote tourism in the villages of Chhattisgarh, especially in the remote areas of Bastar and Surguja,” a state government spokesperson said. The step would also provide employment opportunities to the youth, he added.

The spokesperson said the tourists will get a special experience related to the culture, art, craft, and nature of the village through homestay, as well as it will benefit the people living in those villages, and increase their income.

This will also prove to be important in achieving the goal of the development of rural tourism in the country and offering tourists an authentic hinterland experience.

The two priority regions for the Chhattisgarh government to promote the policy are Surguja and Bastar. Both have been under the influence of left-wing extremism (LWE) and have witnessed some of the deadliest violence that rocked the country.

Surguja district, which borders Jharkhand, is now free from the LWE. Mainpat, a hill station known as the ‘Shimla of Chhattisgarh’, is located in Surguja, which also has attractive waterfalls and places of historic importance.
